

I will present some ideas from the world of technology that might be useful at a future energy frontier collider. Along the way I will point out some R&D avenues that should be explored.