Records Management and Information Technology Management

Monday, 12 May 2008 14:15 (40 minutes)

Records Management and Information Technology Management: A Necessary Collaboration in Complying With the Department's A-130 Requirements.

OMB Circular A-130, Management of Federal Information Resources, requires agencies to (among other things) take an integrated approach to managing information throughout its life cycle, collect only that information needed to perform agency functions, and to use electronic media and formats that will make government information more accessible to the public. This presentation will examine the relationships between records management and information technology management in meeting the Department's A-130 responsibilities.
