

Contribution ID: 81

Type: Poster

Atmospheric Neutrino Flux Below 100 MeV.

We study the neutrino flux produced by the stopped muon in matter to predict the lower energy atmospheric neutrino flux with better accuracy below 100 MeV.

Mini-abstract

Neutrino from the muon stopped in matter

Experiment/Collaboration

Primary author: Prof. HONDA, Morihito

Co-authors: Dr CHEN, Jie (Institute of High Energy Physics, Chinese Academy of Sciences); Prof. NISHIMURA, Jun (Institute of Space and Astronomical Science); Prof. KASAHARA, Katsuaki (Shibaura Institute of Technology); Prof. NIDORIKAWA, Shoichi (Faculty of Software and Information Technology, Aomori University); Prof. KAJITA, Takaaki (Institute for Cosmic Ray Research, Univ. of Tokyo)

Presenters: Prof. HONDA, Morihito; Prof. NIDORIKAWA, Shoichi (Faculty of Software and Information Technology, Aomori University)

Session Classification: Poster Session 2