ACORN progress

- ACORN is continuing to work on their requirements management process.
- The requirements management system used in the past (DOORS) has been found rather cumbersome, and we are searching for an alternative product.
 - For example, importing existing Word tables yields a single artifact, not a set of individual elements.
 - High cost of licenses limits the number of seats the lab has.
 - Collecting feedback from stakeholders, reviewers, etc. is a manual process and doesn't become part of the record in DOORS.
- Newer products seem to solve at least some of these problems.
- We evaluated two candidates:
 - Visure (<https://visuresolutions.com>)
 - Jama (<https://www.jamasoftware.com>).
- We prefer Jama, and are in final evaluation (cybersecurity review, etc.).
